Belief Exists That Bank Will Soon Reopen

(By Associated Press)

Springfield, O., November 13.—The Houston Bank of South Charleston, a privately owned bank, was closed today on orders of the State Bank Department, according to word received here.

This action followed the arrival yesterday of two bank examiners. The request that the Department take over the bank was made because of the fact its loans and investments were such they could not be turned in to liquid form in short order.

BELIEVE BANK NOT IN SERIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES

(Special to The Herald)

South Charleston, O., November 13.—No excitement was caused here today by the closing of the Houston Bank, and it is believed that the bank will reopen within a short time, possibly Monday.

A large amount of securities are held which, although perfectly good, cannot be readily converted into cash it is announced.

As a result of the closing of the bank the creamery here, operated by the Houstonia Company, was not buying cream today.

The belief is expressed here that the present difficulties of the bank will soon disappear.

SAYS ENGINEERS WERE WELL PAID FOR OIL SALES

"Commissions" Charged To Advertising Says Accountant

Shipping Board Investigation Continues

(By Associated Press)

New York, November 13.—Testimony concerning "commissions" paid engineers on shipping board vessels by firms selling supplies for the ships was given today at continuation of the Congressional investigation into the board's affairs.

Miss Lizzie Moorehouse, accountant—treasurer of the Bird-Archer Company, manufacturers of chemicals—said such "presents" were charged up by the salesmen as "advertising."

Refreshing her memory from an affidavit which she made in July, 1918, now part of the Walsh Committee's record, she declared engineers were paid $10 on each 20 gallon keg sold and $5 for each 10 gallon keg sold. She testified that these "presents" amounted to about 10, 15 or 20 percent of the firm's "advertising" account.

Kingston Bank Loses About $100,000 in Cash and Bonds Is New Estimate

$5,000 in Cash Forms Part Of Loot Obtained by Daring Bandits.

(By Associated Press)

Kingston, O., November 13.—Police of central Ohio today continued search for three armed bandits who yesterday held up the First National Bank here and escaped with cash and bonds amounting to approximately $100,000.

The loot consisted of $5,000 in cash, $15,000 in liberty bonds and about $75,000 in other government securities, according to G. E. Myers, cashier of the bank.

No trace of the robbers had been reported this morning.

The bank, it is understood, was fully protected against robbery, and the stockholders will not be called upon to make good the amount stolen. The bank opened for business as usual on Saturday morning after being closed Friday afternoon.

No trace of the bandits was reported after they left Yellowbud, although a car was found east of Columbus which answered the description of the machine used by the robbers.

BUFFALO FACES FUEL SCARCITY IN BITING COLD

Doctor's Certificate Necessary To Obtain Ton of Coal

Gas Pressure Also Drops During Cold Snap

(By Associated Press)

Buffalo, N. Y., November 13.—A doctor's certificate of necessity was required to obtain a ton of coal here today, and with the thermometer around 20 degrees above zero thousands of families with empty coal bins were clamoring for fuel.

A marked shortage in the supply of natural gas intensified the demand. Temporary relief was expected with in twenty-four hours.

GRIDIRON BATTLES RAGING TODAY

Illinois And Wisconsin Stage Important Contest Of The Day At Madison

Illinois Hoping For Victory To Face Ohio State With Clean Slate.

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, November 13.—Illinois today faces Wisconsin at Madison in the most important contest of the day's conference games, with Wisconsin's title chances at stake. The Illini hope for victory, so they may meet Ohio State next Saturday with their slate still clean.

The battle today should be one of the hardest fought of the season in the west. Chicago battles Michigan at Ann Arbor for the first time since 1904. Purdue plays Northwestern at Evanston and Minnesota meets Iowa at Iowa City in other conference games.

Indiana goes out of the conference to play Notre Dame for the state championship, while Ohio State is idle. Ohio State and Illinois are each undefeated, with four victories, while Wisconsin has lost to Ohio State.

A victory today for Wisconsin, and again over Chicago, a week later, would give the Badger eleven a standing of four games won and one lost.

Illinois, if defeated today, would go into the Ohio State game with the same standing. As Illinois has a schedule of one more conference game than Ohio, a defeat by Wisconsin today would still leave open a chance for the conference title in the Ohio State game, since the Illini could gain a standing of five games won and one lost to four and one for Ohio and Wisconsin.

INSISTS DRIVER HALTED ON SCENE

"Solution" of Wall Street Explosion Results in Sensational Claims by Newspaper

Shows Pictures of The Man Said to Have Driven "Death Wagon."

(By Associated Press)

New York, November 13.—The driver of the wagon which drew the explosive which killed 37 persons and wounded hundreds, September 16th in Wall Street, remained in the vicinity for 48 minutes afterward, the Evening World declared today in continuing presentation of evidence in its "solution" of the explosion mystery.

The newspaper claimed the explosive, a giant dynamite bomb, was sent to a building razing gang at Broadway and Wall street in a murder plot by outraged individuals with William Czaranko's House Wreckers' Union No. 95, in revenge against members of the Building Trades Council local which had supplanted the Czaranko men on that job.

The "fact" of the wagon driver's presence in the vicinity of the explosion for 48 minutes indicating the failure of the police "to act with reasonable intelligence," said the paper, "was brought out yesterday by the publication of the picture in the Evening World showing the driver on the sidewalk with three other men after the explosion."

"This exclusive picture was part of a moving picture film. Further on in the film a clock face is shown indicating the time as 12:50 o'clock. This was 48 minutes after the deadly explosion."

"In all that time the driver was evidently mingling with the swarms of police and detectives who were on the scene immediately following the blow-up."

BOY ENDEAVORS TO WRECK TRAIN ON THE B. & O.

Youth Taken Into Custody At Chillicothe Had Placed Spikes on B. & O.

Officer Nabs Youngster While Endeavoring To Wreck Train.

Phillip C. Hatfield, 15, of Chillicothe, was taken into custody Friday by Lieutenant Riche, B. & O. detective, who picked up the lad while he was in the act of placing railroad spikes and other obstructions on the track of the Wellston Branch of the B. & O. near Chillicothe, with the intention of wrecking the B. & O. passenger or freight trains passing at that point.

In connection with the arrest the Chillicothe Gazette says:

"B. & O. officials claimed this is not the first time attempts have been made to wreck trains in the last few days. On the night of the tenth a fast freight ran into rough going at almost the same spot, and by some unexplained piece of good luck swept the track clear of over twenty pieces of bolts, fishplates and spikes which had been laid on the rails.

"On the morning of the 11th section men going to work found a similar number of pieces of steel at another spot, which evidently had been laid there a short time before. All were removed from the track by the men.

"B. & O. officers have been laying in wait for the culprit with very little success. Young Hatfield, who has been shucking corn east of the city, came under suspicion, as the attempts to wreck trains checked up with the time he made trips back and forth to his work. However, officers who followed him one evening were rather thrown off the trail by the fact he went straight home. Believing that in some way the boy had become cognizant of the fact he had been followed Thursday, Riche armed himself with a pair of good field glasses and concealed his ample form at some distance from the spot where the metal had been scattered.

"About 7:35 Hatfield came along, and after taking a good look around, Riche alleged he saw that he placed a spike on the track. The officer overhauled the lad before he could get away. Returning to the spot he compelled Hatfield to pick up the rusty spike, and then brought him to the police station.

"When questioned there regarding his object in attempting to wreck trains, the lad maintained a stolid silence, and refused to talk."

YALE-PRINCETON GAME IN PALMER MEMORIAL STADIUM

(By Associated Press)

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 13—Yale football team will re-enter the Palmer Memorial Stadium here this afternoon for the first time in four years for a game with the Princeton eleven. Since the last contest in the Tiger's gridiron amphitheater back in 1916, the world-war and the seasonal shift to New Haven have prevented the bi-annual battle which is the closing classic of the Princeton football schedule.

As a result of this unusual break in the series between the two famous football rivals the struggle has taken on greatly increased interest and Tiger town is aflame with color and excitement on the eve of the game which means the success or failure of the gridiron season from a Princeton football standpoint. The village hotels are filled beyond all normal capacity while the University dormitories are quartering many alumni who would hesitate to state how many years have elapsed since they were graduated.

DEATH CALLS SISTER OF MRS. DAUGHERTY

Friends and relatives in this city received the sad intelligence on Saturday morning that Mrs. Thornhill, sister of Mrs. H. M. Daugherty, died Friday night about midnight at the Daugherty home in Columbus. Although Mrs. Thornhill had been ill for some months past her death came as a great shock to family and friends. For many years Mrs. Thornhill has made her home in Columbus with Mrs. Daugherty.

Many Washington friends remember Mrs. Thornhill when she visited with Mrs. Daugherty during her residence in this city.

Hon. H. M. Daugherty, who has been with the party of President-elect Harding at Point Isabel, Texas, when notified of Mrs. Thornhill's death immediately cancelled all engagements and left for Columbus.

Funeral services have not yet been announced but burial will be made in the cemetery at Wellston, the old family home.

LIFE OF WATER PIPING INDICATED

Just how long cast iron water-main pipe will last is indicated by a section of piping exhibited in Xenia, removed from the ground after 33 years of service, and concerning which the Xenia Gazette says:

"The piece of pipe is a cast iron section taken from the ground when workmen made the connection of the new force main from the new pumping station to the old force main on the Springfield Pike. Although it has been in the ground for 33 years, the pipe appears to be almost as good as new even on the inside, where the water has had no bad effect on the metal.

"The piece of pipe has seen 33 years of service. For nine years, before the Cincinnati Pike pumping station was built all of the water furnished the city came from the Springfield Pike station, and it is estimated that about 100,000 gallons a day passed through the section of pipe. Since then the Springfield Pike station has furnished more than half of the water supply and so it is estimated that an average of about 200,000 gallons of water a day passed through the pipe during its 33 years of service. In 33 years this amounts to three billions, 500 million gallons of water."

LOTEN W. CHAFFIN

The second son of Solomon and Hester A. Chaffin, was born near Waterloo, this county on Christmas Day, 1855, and departed this life Sunday morning November 7, 1920 aged 64 years, 10 months and 12 days.

The most of his early life was spent on the farm, the old homestead on the Jamestown Pike, about a mile and a half west of Washington C. H.

His mother died, 19 years ago, his father 6 years ago, and his oldest brother Franklin A., only a year and a half ago. Only two of his family are left, the oldest, Mrs. Tryphina Dixon of this city, and the youngest H. D. Chaffin, of Columbus, Ohio.

After reaching mature manhood, Loten Chaffin became a carpenter by trade, which business he followed for many years.

On October 3, 1882, he was united in marriage to Mattie E. Cripps and thus established a home of his own and earnestly took up the Battle of Life in the world.

Five children were born in this home, Guy, living in Columbus, Ohio; Lee, in Jacksonville, Tenn.; Otto, in Montgomery, Alabama, and Frank, the youngest, at their present home in this city. The three oldest sons are married and have homes of their own. One daughter, Olive May, died in infancy. Besides these five children of her own, they took a little orphan girl, Nora Rhoades only three years of age, and made her one of the family, bringing her up to refined womanhood, and until she was past 21 years of age she is married and living in Topeka, Kansas.

Mr. Chaffin began his own home life near Hagler's Station, but soon moved to Jeffersonville, this county, where he resided several years and worked at his trade, and until his health failed, when he moved his family to Sulphur Lick Springs in Ross County, where he regained his health, and again worked at his trade in Frankfort, for some time, but the work being too heavy, he went into cabinet work at Greenfield and Athens. In 1907 he moved to Southern Tennessee, and has resided there until about five months ago, when he realized that his journey of life was nearly run. Selling his holdings he came back to the

NOT GUILTY

(By Associated Press)

East Liverpool, Nov. 13.—A verdict of not guilty was returned by a jury at Lisbon Friday in the second degree murder case against Francisco Diletto, of Ulrichsville, who was alleged to have killed Dominic Com-home of his boyhood and young manhood, to renew old friendships and acquaintances, and at last to rest among those he loved and cherished, and had lost awhile. Today he will be laid to rest by his father and mother and older brother and also by the side of his little daughter, in the family burial ground in the Washington Cemetery.

Loten Chaffin was distinctly a "Home Man." His home was to him, an earthly heaven, with his wife and children around him, no other attraction or pleasure could detract or lure him away, and he was planning to have the happiest birthday he had ever experienced, where on the coming Christmas Day the entire family should be together once more.

Heaven, here, was his "happy home." Heaven, afterwards, will be when he gathers his loved ones around him once more, in the Land of No partings and "No good byes."

The American Dollar

We have been hearing a great deal during the war time inflation period about fifty cent dollars. That expression is nothing more than a campaign slogan intended by its originators to express, tersely, the reduced purchasing power of a dollar because of higher prices.

The American dollar is still a dollar—worth one hundred cents the world over—and we all are, or should be, proud of the majesty of our standard coin.

We dislike to hear people talk about a fifty cent American dollar. There is no such thing. It is now and always has been the one standard coin which has passed, the world over, in the market places and money centers at its full face value.

The pound, the mark, the franc and the standard coins of all other nations have dropped in value but the good old American "Daddy Dollar" has shown forth worth one hundred cents all during the financial crisis of war.

If some spendthrifts have seen fit, while in the flush of prosperity which the stability of the good American dollars brought them, to exchange more dollars for luxuries than formerly, their extravagance should not be expressed in terms that untruthfully reflect on the dollar.

There never has been a time when the American dollar wouldn't buy a dollar's worth of goods or discharge a dollar's worth of debt anywhere on earth. We may have had five cent marks, three cent francs and three dollar pounds but we have never had anything but dollars worth one hundred cents everywhere.

Now that the license of campaign time is revoked let's quit talking about fifty cent dollars. It doesn't sound right and it isn't right.

Don't be Hasty

We must be careful in these days of falling prices not to jump too hastily to conclusions and expect results too soon when price cuts are recorded at the "source of supply."

These are trying times for retail dealers in all lines as well as for consumers. The manufacturers and the jobbers, we should remember, when sensational announcements of price reductions are made, have worked off, in most instances, the fall and winter stocks and are preparing for spring and summer stocks.

Unquestionably the announcement that a substantial cut has been made at the source of supply which will guarantee retailers the opportunity to replace present stocks at lower prices will bring a reduction in the consumer's retail market. Even though it means a loss to the retailer he will accept that loss, in most instances, as a part of the cost of reconstructing his business. It will be impossible, however, for the retailers to, at once, cut as deep in prices as the wholesalers and jobbers who have got themselves in the clear.

Prices are coming down but we must not get an erroneous idea concerning local markets from the news of price "flurries" higher up.

Wisconsin Speaks

The result of the balloting in Wisconsin in the recent election has served to, very markedly, re-establish that state in public esteem.

With its LaFollette and its Berger, the one in the Senate and the other in the House of Congress, Wisconsin has suffered during the last five years a severe loss of public favor.

Rabid radicalism was dealt a knockout blow by the voters of Wisconsin and the effect will be beneficial to the state as a whole which was suffering in reputation by reason of the false position into which a few of its radical leaders had persisted in placing it. Wisconsin is a great state and numbers, among its inhabitants many thousands of hard working, industrious and patriotic citizens. Wisconsin has been all right but it has been placed in a wrong position by the radicals who held the whip hand in politics.

In the recent election, for the first time, the voters got the real chance to express themselves and they did express themselves in no unmistakable manner. The sisterhood of states welcomes Wisconsin back in the lineup under control of the dependable majority.

POETRY FOR TODAY

THE DANCING MOTE

I, too, have lived gold-purple, days,
And drowsed through heavyscented
noons,
And lifted heavy-weighted eyes
To hotly dazzling, heaving skies,
And tossed beneath huge sultry moons,
And I have strutted down the road
Of brave ambitions, wildly live,
Youth's clamorous pulses beat the time
I sway to; Measures half-sublime!
I loved their dizzying, deadly drive.

Far down my traveled road I gaze:
(Hush! Still I catch faint charming
notes
That ring so fairylike and clear!)
A garden, in the Spring of the year—
A child, who plays with dancing
notes!

Life's tides more strongly never flowed,
Yet now I mourn for vanished lures,
Today invites, and yet repels—
'Gainst bubble charms my heart rebels;
The sun-born mote alone endures.

MARK SULLIVAN SAYS COX IS NOT LIKELY TO CONTINUE AS LEADER OF DEMOCRACY

Nor Is Bryan Likely To Stag: A Come-Back — But A Sharp Eye Should be Kept On McAdoo And His Friends

Inside Story Of A Campaign Fund Of A Million And A Half Dollars That Governor Cox Turned Down.

Editor's Note—In this article discussing the leadership of the Democratic party the next four years, Mark Sullivan reveals a secret story of the late campaign—now at the moment the Democratic National Committee was hustling to collect $7,500 as an advance payment on Gov. Cox's special train, it received an offer of $1,500,000 provided Gov. Cox would make a certain speech—which was not made.

BY MARK SULLIVAN
(Copyright 1920)

Washington, November 13.—Such a multitude of things happened at the recent election, and so many of them were spectacular, that it was not surprising if the public finds itself wandering in a fog composed partly of fact and partly of surmise.

In an effort to get rid of much of the surmise and bring the facts into their true relations, there is no point more convenient to start from than the present condition and future prospects of the Democratic party. I refer to the Democratic party as a national organization not merely to the Democratic senators and representatives who will be in congress after March 4. What these leaders will do and what policies they will have must appear in due course. For the present let us consider a separate thing, the future of the Democratic party as a national organization whose chief function looks to the selection of a candidate for the Presidency every four years.

In this sense the controlling body of the party is the Democratic National Committee. Whatever the party is to do officially must be done through this committee. Normally this committee more or less goes to sleep during the four years between elections but it is understood that some elements in the party will undertake to bring about a special meeting in December or January to survey the conditions, take account of assets, and determine what to do about the next four years. At that meeting it will probably appear what element of the party is likely to be dominant, and just what individual is likely to assume leadership.

About this last point, there is much talk that is sheerest surmise and goes far afield from the facts. In one quarter it is said that Cox will continue to be the leader; in another that Bryan is going to come to live in Washington and take charge of the Democratic party; in another that the friends of Mr. Adoo are going to be dominant in the National Committee.

A Deficit That Will Talk

To consider these possibilities intelligently, one starting point as good as any other is the hard, definite and insistent fact that the Democratic organization ended the campaign with a loan due to the bank for $150,000 and other bills aggregating nearly the same amount—a total deficit of nearly $300,000. That deficit is there. Somebody must pay it. My observation has been that the persons who make up a deficit under such circumstances usually have a good deal to say about the future management of things. Money talks. It talks as much when it is in the form of a campaign contribution as anywhere else.

This deficit of nearly $300,000 is the most concrete and urgent fact in the Democratic situation. To be sure, deficits are no novelty with either party. But this is a deficit with a failure. There is all the difference in the world between a deficit plus success and a deficit plus failure.

The Democrats ended their campaign four years ago with a deficit of over twice the present sum. But they were successful then, and a successful party need have no trouble about meeting a deficit. By that same token the Republicans right now have a deficit over five times the Democrats—a deficit of $1,600,000. But the Republicans are the successful party. It is the Democrats who should worry.

McAdoo's Friends Have the Money
I don't doubt that if the Democrats had the necessary machinery they could make up their deficit of $300,000 through small contributions from a large number of individuals. There are plenty of loyal Democrats, but the trouble is the Democratic National Committee is not in a good state of organization and has not got the rather elaborate mechanism which alone can collect large sums in small contributions. Under these circumstances, and being pressed for the money, as they undoubtedly are, the Democratic organization will probably turn to those of their friends who are at once rich and generous. And when they seek out the Democrats who are rich and generous, you are apt to find them among the friends of McAdoo. It would be a reasonable guess that whatever changes take place in the Democratic organization will be in the direction of placing Mr. McAdoo's friends in the saddle and of giving to Mr. McAdoo as much dominating leadership as any one person is likely to hold in the near future.

I don't by any means intend to imply that Mr. McAdoo's leadership will be due to the fact that his friends are better able to pay a deficit than Mr. Bryan's friends, for example. Any one who will review the history of the San Francisco convention will recognize that Mr. McAdoo is a natural heir to the party leadership on other grounds. As things stand now, omitting the multitude of accidents that may happen, and the new leaders who may appear during the coming four years, Mr. McAdoo is the nearest guess that can be made at this moment as to a Presidential possibility in 1924.

Can Bryan Come Back?

Undoubtedly Mr. McAdoo's friends entertain this ambition for party leadership; undoubtedly, also, Mr. Bryan's friends and Mr. Bryan himself entertain the same ambition for Mr. Bryan. With due respect and affection for Mr. Bryan and with due care to avoid seeming to issue invitations to what must be no less than the sixth political funeral at which Mr. Bryan has been the subject of the obsequies I feel sure that there are no possible circumstances ahead under which Mr. Bryan is likely to resume the leadership of the Democratic party.

It is given out that Mr. Bryan is coming to Washington to live, and it is assumed that his purpose is to boss the Democratic party. I suspect that if Mr. Bryan spends the winter in Washington, it will be largely because he has sold his house at Asheville, N. C. If he undertakes any political activity here, I suspect that activity will be in the direction of leading the prohibition forces in congress.

I don't mean to charge Mr. Bryan with having reached that stage of senility when old ambitions take wing. But, from causes outside himself, I can find no probability of Bryan stepping again into such leadership of the Democratic party as he once had. I say this in spite of the fact that Mr. Bryan's present issue, prohibition, is proved by events in the recent election and in the campaign preceding to be a most vital and successful issue. But Mr. Bryan as an advocate of prohibition is one thing, and Mr. Bryan as a personal leader is another.

Kind Words for Cox, But—

As to Cox continuing in leadership that is hard to see. Many friendly words are being said about Cox just now. It is proper that this should be. It is an expression of one of the best traits of human nature to pay tribute to a man who under adverse circumstances beyond his control, made a gallant fight.

All the local party leaders throughout the country who came in contact with Cox during the campaign learned to like him; and it is their affectionate loyalty, rising under the warm impulse of added loyalty in time of adversity, that now creates most of the talk about Cox continuing as leader of the Democratic party. But Cox himself, when he looks at the situation with cold intelligence, will be the last man to expect the recent leadership to continue.

Cox is intelligent enough to know that as a leader of the Democratic party he is as completely of the past as Alton B. Parker became when he suffered an even less conspicuous defeat sixteen years ago. Not only is Cox made impossible as a leader by the crushing quality of his defeat; in addition to this, those elements within the Democratic party who got the nomination for Cox are in the deepest sort of disfavor.

Cox's Backers in Disfavor

One of those who brought about Cox's nomination is Murphy of New York, and Murphy is charged, to express it in the current political slang with having "laid down" on the party in the election. To assume that Murphy and Tammany would "lay down" odium as that is, would be more charitable than to assume they didn't. If Murphy and Tammany did their best, and if their best resulted in a Harding majority of more than a million in New York state, it is more charitable to assume that they weren't working very hard.

What is true of Murphy is in a degree also true of Nugent of New Jersey and Brennan of Chicago. This particular group of leaders won't be permitted to have a hand in naming the next Democratic candidate for the presidency, if it can be prevented by the other elements.

It is probably true that Cox personally was not always tied up to those leaders as close as he first seemed. Undoubtedly these men, when they nominated Cox, did so with the thought that they could rely on him not to veto any modification of the prohibition law in the direction of greater "wetness." They had no promise from Cox to this effect, but they took it for granted. It is apparent, however, that when the campaign got under way Cox declined to take a position as "wet" as they hoped he would. Nevertheless, regardless of whatever is the precise degree of Cox's connection with these men, he will suffer from their association in any figure considerations affecting party leadership, just as he suffered from their association during the campaign. Altogether, Cox, of all the possibilities for Democratic leadership now in sight is the least likely.

When Cox Turned Down $1,500,000

In connection with Cox and prohibition, one of the most interesting episodes of the recent campaign is still a little obscure. If Cox, together with those others who know the facts and have the documents, should see fit to let them become public, this episode would probably turn out to have a good deal of bearing on the question of future leadership of the party.

The story is this: The Democrats in the early stages of the campaign were desperately hard pressed for money. When the train was hired to take Cox on his long trip from New York to the Pacific coast and back the Democratic organization was unable to pay the bill in advance. The railroad company accommodatingly agreed to take the money in installments, but said that the train could not leave New York until an advance of $7,500 was paid. The sum was not in the Democratic treasury, and Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who was in temporary charge of headquarters at the time, had to do some energetic hustling to get the sum together in time to let the train start on schedule.

Under these conditions, trying as they were for Cox and for the organization, an offer was received to raise a campaign fund of $1,500,000—provided a certain condition was complied with. I have never known accurately the names of all who united in this offer, but I understand that the group included Allan Ryan of New York, Thomas L. Chadborne, of New York, and ex-Senator Clarence Watson of West Virginia. These three, and the others associated with them, were fully able to make good on the offer. I understand that Mr. Ryan alone was willing to be responsible for $500,000.

The condition named was that Cox in one of his speeches in the Far West should announce himself "bone dry" and should pledge himself to veto any act of congress tending to make the present prohibition law less drastic. A telegram to this effect was sent to Cox. At the same time, I understand, President Wilson was told of the incident. Mr. Wilson, it is said, wired Gov. Cox in strong language, urging him to turn the offer down. In any event Cox did turn it down, and the party organization dragged along in the same state of impecuniosity.

Reasons for Cox's Refusal

It might be inferred that Gov. Cox's reason for turning down this offer lay in his being opposed to prohibition in principle, or in being opposed to it on grounds of political expediency, or in feeling that he was embracing these new friends whose interests were "wet." But a much more creditable inference is equally believable. It can be inferred that Gov. Cox may have refused the offer on the ground that it would be improper for him to pledge himself in advance to veto or not to veto any specific act of congress. It is just this kind of intimidation of congress that constitutes one of the principal charges against President Wilson, and Gov. Cox may well have decided not to lay himself open to it.

In any event, the story is one of the most interesting of the campaign, and the telegrams between Gov. Cox and George White, which contain the story, ought to be made public, if for no other reason than to settle a doubt which arises out of different versions given by different parties to the transaction.

Some of those who made the offer claim that what they asked Cox to say about prohibition was not a condition, but merely a suggestion. One of them, ex-Senator Clarence Watson of West Virginia, a few days later sent a supplementary telegram to Gov. Cox saying that he had not meant to put himself in the position of holding a gun at Gov. Cox's breast. As to the others, however, the impression gained by those who knew of the episode was that the offer and the message in which it was embodied were a condition.

RANDOM NOTES

SOCIAL : PERSONAL MENTION : CLUBS

Despite statements to the contrary at the time of her second marriage, Mrs. Irene Castle will return to the stage. It was learned yesterday that the dancer, who is now Mrs. Robert E. Treman of Ithaca, is to resume her foot light career, starting in England. According to present plans, she will appear in a London revue to be presented by Charles B. Cochran, the English theatrical producer, probably at his Pavillon Theatre. Though her first husband, the late Vernon Castle, noted for having started the modern dancing craze with her, was an Englishman, his wife never played in England in a regular production on the professional stage. Her performances over there have all been at benefits or charity entertainments. Nevertheless she has a very large following in London, and it was decided to have her come back to the stage there, with the prospect of reappearing on the American stage if everything turns out well.

The little bride across the hall was showing the Woman some new curtains she had just bought. "Aren't they lovely!" she exclaimed. "Beautiful," the Woman agreed, "and they go so well with your rug." The bride's face lighted for a moment, then turned worried. "It is going to wreck us financially—living up to that rug," she said. "It's just a little beyond our means but I felt I could be extravagant because I bought it with lunch and dinner money."

"You mean," the Woman demanded disapprovingly, "that you went without proper food to buy an Oriental rug?" "Oh, dear me no," the little bride laughed. "Not at all. You see it was this way: I was boarding before I was married—that is, I had a room and took my meals out. Well, after we got engaged Harry kept taking me to lunch and dinner Saturdays and Sundays and usually once or so during the week. I just felt guilty about it, he was spending so much money. So I fixed it up this way with myself. Every lunch or dinner that he took me to I laid aside the money it would have cost me if I'd gone alone, and decided I'd get something for our apartment. I was amazed how fast it mounted up. Then I saw this rug—it was more than I'd ever dreamed I'd get, but I manoeuvred so that Harry would take me to lunch even when he hadn't thought of it. The last three weeks we shopped and hunted apartments every noon and evening and we were together most of the time, so it just carried the rug over the top. I never told about it until after we were married. Then I thought Harry'd laugh himself sick. But he said he was awfully glad I didn't pick out a grand piano."

And the little bride smiled proudly at the lunch and dinner rug.—New York Sun.

Feminists whose modernity takes the form of cigarette smoking and the wearing of silk stockings were attacked by Miss Alice M. Robertson, the only woman member of the next Congress, in an interview just given out. When asked what she thought of a separate smoking room for women in the Capitol at Washington, Miss Robertson replied:

"I'm a Presbyterian, so why ask me what I think about cigarette smoking? Miss Robertson, who was brought up and who has lived most of her life on the frontiers among the Indians and developers of the soil, has no use for silk stockings. She never wore any in her life. Cotton stockings are good enough for her, she said.

Asked if she believed in appealing to the male voters through her culinary art she replied:

"I've spent a dozen years running a restaurant and look at me. I'm still single."

Miss Olive Hillery arrived home Thursday night from a visit with class mates at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., and Saint Marys-of-the-Woods, Terra Haute, Ind.

Miss Hillery was quite feted during her visit. Miss Lela Green of Pittsburgh, her former room mate at Saint Marys-of-the-Woods entertained fifteen girls at a beautifully appointed dinner in her honor, the girls presenting Miss Hillery with two dozen pink rose buds.

Breakfasts and luncheons were also included in the entertainment.

The Community Circle of the Wilson Centralized School on the Greenfield pike, and the Sugar Grove W. C. T. U. joined together in giving a chicken supper for the public at the school building, Friday evening.

The supper, that was in itself an example of culinary art consisted of all the appetizing delicacies that go with a chicken supper, and was attractively served cafeteria style.

After the supper the people gathered in the Assembly Hall for a delightful program, presented by the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Elva Post, conducting the opening exercises and Mrs. Pearl Darlington made a short talk on the work of the W. C. T. U. Miss Mary Edge played a piano solo, and with Miss Dorothy McCoy a piano duet. Miss Marguerite Wilson gave a reading and responded to an encore.

The W. C. T. U. made a gift of three bibles one each to the Wilson and Eber centralized and the Wabash schools. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vincent (Martha Minnick) the latter a teacher in the Wilson school received a handsome coffee percolator, a gift from the Community Circle.

The program closed with a few impromptu remarks.

The Social Committee of the Knights of Pythias Lodge of Beuna Vista is announcing their first dance of the season to be given, Thursday evening, November the eighteenth at the K. of P. Hall.

Harvey's Orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music.

The Staunton W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Alice Post. Mrs. Ida Rose had charge of the devotional service.

Eight members responded to roll call. The program consisted of a reading "Give Thanks for What" by Mrs. Lavon McCoy, select reading "How Dan Kept His Pledge" by Mrs. Ella Ferguson and a vocal solo by Mrs. Orpha Wilson.

A select reading "Hard Cider" was given by Mrs. Rosetta Boyer before the meeting closed with the W. C. T. U. Benediction.

Proper usage of the American flag is the subject of an educational campaign now being directed by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Frederick Lewis Hoffman is chairman of the Flag committee. Under the title, "Desecration of the Flag," the committee lists the following "don'ts."

Don't place lettering upon the flag. Don't use it as the whole or part of a costume. Don't use it as a table cover. Don't hang it where it may become soiled. Don't place an object above it or upon it except the Bible. Don't drape it. Don't use paper napkins, sofa pillows, candles or handkerchiefs having the flag as decoration. Don't use the flag as a receptacle for money. When the flag is hung with the stripes in a vertical position (so that it can be viewed from one side only) the Union should be at the right as one faces it. When hung so that the stripes are in a horizontal position, the Union should be at the left. When hung across a street the blue field should be to the north in streets running east and west, or east in streets running north and south. When two flags are hung together or crossed the Unions should be placed together.

In reference to the national anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner," the committee points out that it is in bad taste to play it as an exit march or as part of a medley.

PRINCESS HILDA OF LUXEMBOURG WILL MARRY DUKE ALBRECHT OF WURTEMBERG

Princess Hilda of Luxembourg and her fiance, Duke Philippe Albrecht of Wurtemberg.

Princess Hilda, who is the third of the six of Luxembourg sisters, is to marry Duke Philippe Albrecht of Wurtemberg according to recent dispatches from Europe. It has been asserted repeatedly by continental journals that she had been obliged to take refuge in a convent for fear of being forcibly married to Prince Sigismund of Prussia, a nephew of the Kaiser. The princess is twenty-three years old and her fiance is the eldest son of Duke Albrecht of Wurtemberg.

RECITAL CHARMS LARGE AUDIENCE

The recital by Mrs. Myrtle Stearns Farquhar, reader, assisted by Mrs. Florence V. Meek, soprano, Mrs. Lillie B. Davis, organist and Mrs. Ruth Reid Fenner, accompanist, afforded an evening of pure pleasure at the First Presbyterian church Friday night to a large and representative audience that was decidedly complimentary to the artists.

Mrs. Farquhar is a professional reader of note—a most delightful reader, spontaneous and natural and possessing an attractive personality that accentuates the cleverness of her work. Her program showed the artist's versatility and was adapted to please varied tastes.

Mrs. Farquhar's dramatic reading of "The Lion and Mouse" gave to the audience the best opportunity to appreciate her ability and was a very difficult number admirably given. Her character work was splendid and her most popular numbers her Italian and child dialect sketches. The repeated encores gave proof of the audience's appreciation of Mrs. Farquhar's unusual talent.

Mrs. Meek of Denver is so well known to a Washington audience that no introduction was needed. She possesses one of those full, lovely, resonant sopranos, wonderfully sympathetic to the people delight in hearing and the charm of her personality adds greatly to the beauty of her voice.

Beautiful, fresh and limpid the notes poured forth as easily as those of a bird.

The most brilliant and beautiful of her numbers was "An Open Secret"—R. Huntington Woodman—her voice rising superbly to the climax and the encore "Dawn" also showed especially the quality of the voice. She was also repeatedly encored.

Mrs. Ruth Reid Fenner, a most artistic pianist was a perfect accompanist.

Mrs. Lillie B. Davis opened the program with two organ numbers that were effective introductions. Her fine handling of the instrument and especially the use of the beautiful vox humanus stop brought out all the beauty of her numbers and the audience insisted upon an encore—a rather unusual thing for the opening number.

SUFFERING DUE TO LITTLE FUEL

Demand For Coal Unusually Heavy And Many Have None.

According to local coal dealers there are some families in the city without sufficient fuel to keep their homes anything like comfortable, and it is believed that outside of a little wood obtained from many sources, that many families have nothing with which to heat their homes or do their cooking.

The demand for coal has never been greater since the memorable tie-up of traffic during the intensely cold weather two years ago.

Comparatively small supplies of coal have reached the city during the week, and one dealer announces that he is selling not to exceed one ton to a customer, and asks that until the suffering is alleviated that no customer ask for more at one time.

SATURDAY COLDEST OF THIS SEASON

Saturday morning was the coldest the people of Fayette county have experienced this winter. Between seven and eight o'clock the thermometer registered 15 degrees above zero.

It continued cold during the day and at noon the mercury had climbed only slightly above the freezing point. The low mark reached Saturday morning is unusually low temperature for mid-November.

GOOD GASOLINE AND GOOD OIL MAKE A GOOD MOTOR BETTER

WHICH WAY ARE YOU BUYING FUEL?

Do you just drop in at any filling station when your tank is about empty, taking whatever they dish up to you; or do you have a "regular" filling station to visit, and always keep enough gas in the tank to take you and bring you back, thus avoiding the necessity of any way-side stops?

We believe you will find the latter plan much better, and we are confident if you follow it closely you will obtain more mileage, greater motor efficiency and if you start in at one of our filling stations you'll say you get satisfaction.

Same rule holds good on oil. Don't just buy oil at random. Find the right oil and stay with it. Have you used JESCO MOTOR OIL. "It's right."

At our Plant on South Fayette Street, near the railroads.

AUTO GOES BAD THEY WALK HOME

An interesting sidelight on the football game at Circleville Friday afternoon was learned when it became known that "Big Bud" Thompson, right tackle on the Washington high team, and the auto load of fans whom he accompanied to the game, were forced to stay all night in New Holland, and then walk the remaining nine miles home Saturday morning.

About four miles east of New Holland their machine ceased its functioning and as the hour was late they walked to New Holland. No one was in sight; they tried to find a place to sleep and even tried to break into the city lockup but it too was closed. At last a happy thought struck them and they went to the Ohio State Telephone exchange, where, after arousing the man in charge, hospitality was afforded.

Early Saturday morning the boys started to this city on foot and reached here about two hours later.

A fool readily admits that he has wisdom.

GUARD COMPANY MAY SOON BE ORGANIZED HERE

Rumor Says National Guard Organization Wants 37 Millimeter Company Here.

Would Include 67 Men With Several Commissioned Officers.

Rumor has it that the National Guard organization is seeking to establish a company of artillerymen in this city, the company to consist of some 67 officers and men and to use only the 37 millimeter, rapid fire guns commonly known as one-pounders—a most effective and deadly weapon under proper conditions.

It is claimed that the work of organizing the company at this point will be undertaken within a short time, and is in accordance with recent orders for complete re-organization of the national guard, and the Ohio branch of the organization.

The outfit at this point would be a Headquarters Company, and in addition to the captain, some four lieutenants would be included.

Several horses would be maintained at this point at all times to handle the equipment used by the local company, it is understood, and the pay for the members would be much better than under the old guard system prior to the war.

Men in touch with the situation believe that it will be no difficult matter to organize such a company here and as such a company would have considerable equipment, including uniforms and complete service outfits, it would require a good-sized armory for the outfit.

Ex-service men as well as young men who have reached service age since the war, will watch with interest further developments toward organizing the company here.

VESSELS CRASH MANY LEAP INTO NEW YORK BAY

Collision Occurs Near Statue Of Liberty

(By Associated Press)
New York, November 13.—The Spanish steamers Montserrat, from Cadiz with 100 immigrants and a full cargo, and the San Carlos collided off the Statue of Liberty this morning. Several passengers leaped into the bay and first reports had one rescued and taken to the Ellis Island hospital.
The San Marcos continued to her pier where she arrived safely.
The Spanish line agents later reported their vessel had been beached off the foot of Fifty-ninth street in a safe position and that only one passenger—who jumped from the deck to a tug alongside—had been injured.
Plans for bringing the passengers ashore were begun.

BUSINESS MEN AND MERCHANTS TO HEAR TALKER

Arrangements have been made by the Dutch Treat Club to bring to this city on Monday evening at 7:29 o'clock in the high school auditorium a well known American Business Lecture on the platform: "Getting the Most Out of Retailing." Under this head H. W. Karr of the National Cash Register Company, of Dayton, well known business expert and organizer, will discuss the various questions that are of special interest to merchants and business men everywhere. He will show how co-operation and organization will make for a better community or city. He will show practical improvements in service and store organization that will please the general public and draw trade. He will show how proper advertising will change losses to profits. How systematic continuous newspaper advertising pays the largest dividends of all. How system enables a merchant to know at all times about the conditions of his business instead of guessing, is now more than ever before absolutely essential to success.

With the aid of six thousand feet of moving picture film, Mr. Karr will give a most interesting and timely discussion.
A glance at this outline of the lecture is sufficient to show its great value: Retail failures and their causes; store organization; newspaper advertising; window displays; the business of clerks; salesmanship; system. There is no charge for admission.

MAJOR LEAGUES SETTLE THEIR DIFFERENCES

(By Associated Press)
Chicago, November 12.—The warring baseball factions in the major leagues today made peace.

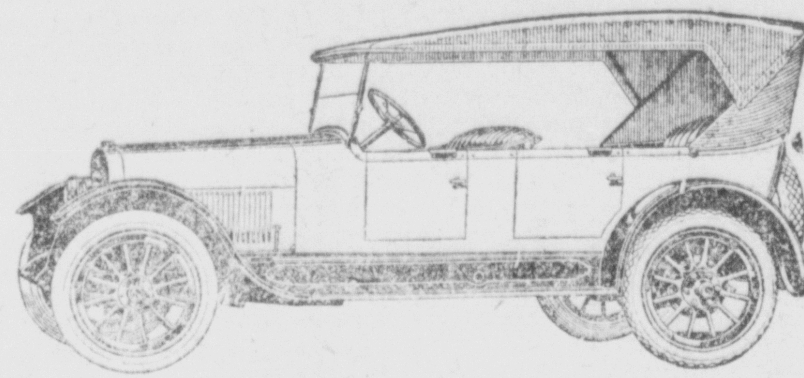

After a three hour session, the representatives of the sixteen clubs voted unanimously to appoint federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, supreme dictator of the leagues' destinies, but did away with the civilian tribunal proposed by the Lasker plan, voting instead that Judge Landis should be a committee of one in complete charge of the administration of the league's affairs.

Judge Landis immediately accepted the position.

Postmaster Brings Thrift Record to His Home Town by Selling Its Citizens Most War Savings Stamps

By DON L. TOBIN.

Columbus, O. —(Special.)—The thriftiest community in the United States has been discovered. It is Stafford, O., a struggling village of 170 persons, nestling in the sparsely settled hills of Monroe county, in the southeastern part of Ohio. It is 10 miles from the nearest railroad and its daily papers and mail are carried to it by automobile, but according to the United States treasury department, this country town has a rightful claim to the record of being the thriftiest spot in the nation. It was made so by Postmaster Frank Hagerman, who daily hands out the postcards, the letters and newspapers that find their way to this "moorly lost community," Hagerman made his town famous by selling it War Savings Stamps. During the past summer held enough in Stafford to make a per capita sale of $127 for every man, woman and child in the place. This record has not been equaled anywhere in the country. Hagerman made his community save $25,000 in three months' time.

Postmaster Hagerman in making this remarkable record tramped from home to home. He didn't spare shoe leather in working for Uncle Sam. But Postmaster Hagerman no longer walks. Steep hills of his home community do not seem almost unsurpassable mountains to him now—for he glides noiselessly over them in a high-powered Monitor automobile presented to him by the Monitor Motor Car company of Columbus, O. Officials of the company said they didn't want to see an Ohioan so rewarded for bringing such an honor to his native state.

Postmaster Hagerman made his excellent record in competition with all other postmasters in Ohio. Although he presides over a fourth class office, he came out victorious over the postmasters of first, second and third class offices as well. He pitted himself against the postmasters of the largest cities of Ohio and won.

"I believe War Savings Stamps are the safest investment for the people in the long run," said Hagerman. "Knowing my goods and believing in them, it was not difficult to make sales."

SUFFER DEFEAT AT CIRCLEVILLE BY CLOSE SCORE

Locals At Last Lose a Game!
When Circleville Wins 12 to 6.

Game Is Thriller In Last Few Seconds When Washington Makes Final Attempt.

Washington high school received its first reversal on the gridiron since September 28, 1918, when defeated Friday afternoon by Circleville High on the Circleville field, 6 to 12.

A crowd estimated at twelve hundred persons saw the game, and this number included about three hundred local fans. The Washington band came on the field in full force about five minutes after the game started followed by about half a hundred rooters.

Washington chose to receive and defended the north goal. Jones' first attempt was offside and the second time for barely twenty yards. Washington began a march down the field that bore down on the Circleville team to within ten yards of the goal posts. The gains were made by successive line bucks by all the backfield and then Captain Rogers went around right end for the touchdown. Flee missed the goal by a few inches.

Circleville received and scored its first touchdown by a freak play. After being held in their tracks for three downs Circleville punted and the ball was barely touched by Deen, who was playing a defensive quarter. The ball rolled down a steep bank and over a railroad track, both teams in pursuit. A Circleville player fell on the ball for the touchdown. Goal was missed.

Neither team was dangerous during the remainder of the period and the half ended with the score six to six.

Circleville received and Jones ran it back to Washington's thirty yard line. On side kicks began to be used by Circleville and the ball was worked down to within the shade of the Circleville goal. Washington held for three desperate line plunges and then Circleville fumbled. Washington punted and it was Circleville's ball on the forty yard line. After making fifteen yards a Circleville half fumbled and Deen fell on the ball. There was a mass of arms and legs and when it was unraveled the referee had the ball and Circleville started towards the goal for the touchdown.

On the fourth down Courtright plunged it across. Goal was missed. Score Circleville 12, Washington 6.

With Washington still six points behind the last twelve minute quarter was taken up by the second hands of anxious watches and Washington staged the most desperate attempt to win ever seen on any high school football field this year.

As the last few minutes pressed forward, the Washington players, in the realization that defeat was settling down upon them for the first time of their lives, started an open style of attack in the hope of scoring in the race with time.

In a shift play Deen made thirty-five yards, but the referee ruled that there were not seven men in the line of scrimmage, called the teams back to their original positions and fined the local squad five yards. Circleville held Washington for downs and it was Circleville's ball on Washington's fifteen yard marker. Washington did not budge and held for downs. Only seconds remained.

Washington made five yards Deen to Nelson. A Circleville player was knocked out on the play and timers agreed that only five seconds remained to play. They also agreed to let Washington have one more play and then call the game.

Flee made ten yards on a forward pass and the teams were lining up when the timer blew his whistle. The referee failed to hear the timer's whistle and the play was off. Deen made a mighty pass for thirty yards to Captain Rogers who had played out on the edge of the field and the referee signaled that the game was over. Rogers jumped high into the air to get the ball, eluded a Circleville man, was tackled by the quarterback, but staggered the remaining twenty yards across the line. The referee ruled that the game was finished when the time was out and not when he himself, signalled the contest was over.

If ever a player deserved to win it was Tommy Rogers, captain of the Blue and White. He was in every play and was the only effective ground gainer of the game, called every signal and engineered every play. He was helped from the field, bloody and completely exhausted, after he made what he thought was the winning touchdown.

Carroll Flee's playing at end was sensational.

Stop this Waste of High Priced Fuel

Do you know that the average stove shoots 50 to 75% of its heat up the chimney? It's a fact. Heating engineers will tell you so.

Here's a stove that's different. It makes your fuel do double duty—extracts a greater percentage of heat from the fuel and throws it out into the room. This heater is the

Estate Hot Storm

—the Stove with a "Little Furnace" in it.

It's more than a stove—it's a stove and furnace combined. Gives two kinds of heat—direct radiation and warm air circulation.

Note the pipes on each side—fresh air goes in at the bottom—warm air comes out at the top. Constant circulation of warm air that will heat several rooms. Burns any kind of fuel. Gives you furnace comfort at a fraction of the usual cost.

Come in and see this wonderful stove.

CHIROPRACTORS MUST UNDERGO EXAMINATION

Court Dissolves Injunction Obtained Six Months Ago

(By Associated Press)
Cleveland, November 13.—Chiropractors must submit to an examination of the state medical board of Ohio before they can practice in the state through a decision handed down today by Judge Thomas S. Dunlap of court of appeals. The decision dissolves an injunction secured by the chiropractors six months ago restraining the medical board from enforcing the Platt-Elis law.

Regarding the status of chiropractors the decision said "They are some concededly legal practitioners in that they come under the exemption of the Platt-Elis law which provided that chiropractors who were practicing before the law went into effect did not have to submit to an examination. More than 300 chiropractors are affected by the ruling.
